

Dear international students,

stuvus welcomes you very kindly at Stuttgart University.

stuvus is the student government of the Universität Stuttgart. Its main job is campaigning for the interests of students. Overall, stuvus wants to make studying at the University more attractive and enjoyable for all students.

It can be that you have a lot of questions and are overwhelmed by the many new things you are discovering and have to find your way around. To make the start at the university easier, we will try to give you an overview of the most important topics.

Therefore, from 26th to 30th October there are many informative events planned by a team of volunteers from stuvus. The topics vary from information on how to finance your studies, up to free time events to get to know each other. Some events are online, others probably take place in Stuttgart. If you are interested, there is an overview with all events on the stuvus website.

There is one event we want to name in particular: on Thursday, 29th October there will be an online Quiz Night organised by the Department for Gender Equality, Diversity and Social Affairs. It is designed especially for international students.

If you have any question during your time at the University, stuvus is always there to give you help "from student to student". For more information on stuvus and how to get involved yourself, you can check our website.

We wish you a successful start, not only professionally, but also in getting to know new people, experiencing the student's life (no matter if in Stuttgart, or in your home town) and expanding your horizons.
