1. Information for all students arriving in Germany from abroad

As of Saturday, June 11, 2022, all COVID-19 entry restrictions to Germany will be provisionally lifted. From this date, entries to Germany will again be permitted for all travel purposes. For entry into Germany, proof of vaccination, proof of convalescence or proof of testing is no longer required.

These regulations are subject to change depending on the COVID-19 situation. On the website of the Robert-Koch-Institute you can check the current regulations for the country you are arriving from.

- Relevant for your arrival is the country and region where you spend the last ten days before your arrival (transfer airports excluded).
- Your compliance with the entry and quarantine regulations can be controlled by the Department of Public Health. Non-compliance results in a fine.
- As of March 3, 2022, no states or regions are considered high-risk areas anymore.

2. General information for all students about vaccinations and certificates

Proofs and certificates are accepted in German, English, French, Italian or Spanish in digital or paper form (e.g. yellow WHO vaccination pass).

Proof of vaccination: The vaccine must be listed on the Paul Ehrlich Institute website. At least 14 days must have passed since the last necessary vaccination dose. The vaccination must have taken place with one or different vaccines approved by the European Union with at least two doses. In countries outside the European Union equivalent vaccines may be used. As of February 1, 2022, the EU vaccination certificate without booster vaccination loses its validity after 270 days, i.e. nine months after basic immunization. From October 1, 2022 to be fully vaccinated three vaccinations will be necessary. For further specifications and exemptions please check here. Proof of recovery from a Covid infection: a medical certificate stating the type of test, the responsible authority and that the test was done at least 28 days and a maximum of 90 days ago by the time of infection.

For exact descriptions of accepted documents please refer to the links in the beginning of this document!

3. How to self-isolate

Most students live in shared flats. You must stay alone in your room during the isolation. Your flatmates will be helpful in organizing your isolation. Please discuss with them the usage of kitchen and bathroom, groceries etc. Consider taking some food with you for the first evening and morning. You can drink tap water in Germany.
